RAINBOW HEALTH

OUR MISSION Rainbow Health increases access to health care for people who experience injustice at the intersection of health status and identity (including gender, sexual, racial, and age), while continuing to serve individuals and communities at risk of and living with HIV.

WHAT WE DO

We help people navigate healthcare systems by breaking down barriers, particularly for LGBTQ+ people and those affected by HIV.

We work to end HIV by providing the most comprehensive array of wrap-around services for people with HIV. As a disease of injustice, the only way to end HIV is to end health disparities.

We offer unique and specialized mental and chemical health services by and for the communities we serve. Our care is trauma-informed, harm-reduction based, sex-positive, and meets people where they are. We turn no one away for inability to pay.

We work to empower people with relevant information, support, and connection to resources that allow them to lead healthier lives.

We educate and train providers about how to deliver better care for the diversity of LGBTQ+ and HIV communities through a lens of intersectionality.
